

Hall of Fame Inductees

ENZO MANFRE

Is posthumously inducted into the Defense Personnel Support Center Hall of Fame this eleventh day of July 1996 for his extraordinary assistance and support as Air Conditioning Supervisory Foreman in DPSC's Public Works Center – and for his continuous outstanding mission support throughout his tenure at DPSC – from 1960 to 1994. Mr. Manfre's superb technical skill, exceptionally effective management style, and outstanding customer-service attitude significantly improved the quality of life for all DPSC employees for over 34 years. His extraordinary devotion to his fellow employees was legendary. He expertly directed maintaining and repairing the air conditioning and heating systems in DPSC's 3 million square feet of World War I – and II – era structures. He also directed developing technological improvements that redefined the standards of quality in his trade.
