

Hall of Fame Inductees

HARRY S. NUTTER, JR.

Is inducted into the Defense Personnel Support Center Hall of Fame this sixteenth day of June 1995 for his extraordinary leadership and support as director of the Office of Telecommunications and Information Systems - and for his continuous outstanding mission support throughout his tenure at DPSC - from 1960 to 1993. Mr. Nutter expertly spearheaded DPSC's automation revolution which was used as a model throughout the Defense Logistics Agency. He pioneered major automation efforts in software, equipment and personnel management. He initiated DPSC's first personal computer procurement which set the precedent for all other purchases. His leadership, foresight and planning kept DPSC on the cutting edge of technology. His superb management in information telecommunications technology put DPSC and DLA in the vanguard of the Defense Department's automation security efforts.
