KATHLEEN FITZGERALD

Kathleen Fitzgerald distinguished herself by exceptional service during her entire government career from October 1964 to September 1997 while serving in various capacities in the Department of Defense. She was the Deputy for the Directorate of Subsistence from 1978 to 1993 and Director of the Base Realignment and Closure Office from 1993 to 1997. She gained the respect of her employees through her willingness to share her vast experiences and varied talents, her successes with empowerment and team building, and her genuine concern for her staff. She gained the respect of her peers through her professionalism, creativity in problem solving, and dedication to the mission. Kathleen Fitzgerald is a visionary, a person ahead of her time, and an exceptional leader. She is one of the few who battled to make changes against what seemed insurmountable odds. Her accomplishments have changed logistical management throughout the Defense Logistics Agency and are felt worldwide.
