NOTE 1: Code Y identifies a new item from provisioning. Initial procurement action will be coded as a provisioning buy, and will be output for review by the Commodity Manager. Code N identifies an additional requirement for an established item and procurement action will not be coded as a provisioning buy.

NOTE 2: Criteria for Determining the Provisioning Control File (PCF) DRPR:

a. If the CWA DRPR, adjusted to the current decade, is greater than the current date and the date is less than four years in the future, use the CWA adjusted date. Example: Current Date = 90001, Submitted DRPR = 0294, Adjusted to Current Decade = 90294, DRPR Date Used = 90294.

b. If the CWA DRPR, adjusted to the current decade, is greater than the current date, the date is greater than four years in the future, and the date is within the previous two years prior to the current date when the previous decade is used, use the processing date as the DRPR. Example: Current Date = 90001, Submitted DRPR = 9328, Adjusted to Current Decade = 99328, Adjusted to Previous Decade 89328, DRPR Date Used = 90001.

c. If the CWA DRPR, adjusted to the current decade, is greater than the current date, the date is greater than four years in the future, and the date is not within the previous two years prior to the current date when the previous decade is used, adjust the date to four years beyond the processing date. Example: Current Date = 90001, Submitted DRPR = 6331, Adjusted to Current Decade = 96331, Adjusted to Previous Decade = 86331, DRPR Date Used = 94001.

d. If the DRPR, adjusted to the current decade, is less than the current date but is within two years prior to the current date, use the processing date as the DRPR. Example: Current Date = 90145, Submitted DRPR = 0030, Adjusted to Current Decade = 90030, DRPR Used = 90145.

e. If the DRPR, adjusted to the current decade, is less than the current date and is not within two years prior to the current date, adjust the date to four years beyond the processing date. Example: Current Date = 93145, Submitted DRPR = 0145, Adjusted to Current Decade = 90145, DRPR Used = 97145.
