

DLA Distribution Warner Robins, Georgia

Mr. Joseph Steadley

Deputy Director

Joseph Steadley is a dedicated and accomplished leader bringing with him a wealth of experience from a distinguished 30-year career in the United States Navy and nearly a decade of service with the Defense Logistics Agency.

Born and raised in Miramar, Florida, Steadley embarked on his naval career in 1979, where he initially served in the Submarine Force and eventually rose to the esteemed position of Chief of the Boat. In his final 15 years of military service, he held the second-highest executive role in five different Navy commands, overseeing operations, resources, and personnel management for organizations ranging from 400 to 25,000 military, government service, contractor, and foreign national employees.

Upon joining the DLA team in 2012, Steadley made significant contributions to two Major Subordinate Commands: DLA Disposition Services and DLA Distribution. His role as the Operations Chief at DLA Distribution Warner Robins Georgia saw him take charge of the proper storage and issuance of materials crucial to the warfighter. This encompassed the management of over 130,000 unique National Item Identification Numbers and the oversight of 22 warehouses and storage areas spanning more than 3 million square feet.

Furthermore, Steadley's tenure as the Chief Administrator for the Director, Disposition Services Field Operation Mid-America showcased his prowess in managing personnel, budgets, financial programs, and resources. He efficiently directed the Mid-America Region's financial and personnel programs, managed 338 authorized positions across 26 locations in 22 states with an operational budget of $33 million. His adept management of financial, contractual, personnel, training, and travel programs ensured compliance with stringent regulations while optimizing funding methods.

Steadley holds a Bachelor of Science Degree in Human Resource Management, underscoring his commitment to excellence in the field. His dedication and achievements have earned him numerous personal awards, recognizing his invaluable contributions to both the military and the DLA. Joseph Steadley's leadership and expertise continue to drive success at DLA Distribution Warner Robins
