

Hall of Fame Inductees

JOAN D. ANDERSON

is inducted into the Defense Supply Center Philadelphia Hall of Fame this eighth day of November 2006 for her continuous outstanding mission support from 1966 through 1994. Mrs. Anderson's stellar accomplishments during her career at the Defense Supply Center Philadelphia were complemented by her extraordinary work ethic and the quality of service she consistently provided. Her professional commitment to DSCP, its managers and employees permeated every accomplishment during her career at the Agency. Mrs. Anderson was the epitome of the Employee Relations Specialist and displayed many of the characteristics crucial for the job--common sense, tact and diplomacy, keen insight and caring. She rendered invaluable, insightful support to her people and was a key catalyst in maintaining a superior employee relations climate. She provided definitive guidance to people in various organizations throughout the Center on a myriad of personnel actions impacting the position, pay, leave status, training and awards of over 2,000 employees. She constantly worked at a level above what was expected of her which resulted in contributions that went above and beyond expectations.
